Miss Green was driving a mettlesome horse that she had been warned was difficult to handle, but she only laughed as she mounted to the seat of the carriage, and said that mettlesome horses were the only kind that she cared to drive.

Miss Green, who is a fine horsewoman, hung on determinedly, and would have brought the horse under control had it not taken a second fright as it galloped along, and swuved violently to one side, overturning the carriage.

An Organized Cang on the Steamer Britannie.

CHIEF OFFICER AS LEADER

Solled Lines of the Ship-Steward Bribed to Keep Silence-Confes sion of an Employe.

New York, Aur. 9.-Facts which wer brought to light yesterday indicate that there has been an organized conspirac on the part of certain members of the ship's company of the White Star liner Britannic, not only to defraud the Gov ernment by smuggling, but also to plun der the United States mails which the essel carried, if not the cargo also. The story has already, been told how John Kynaston, third officer of the steamship, was arrested last week in Jersey City while trying to have cashed twenty coupons on United States bonds worth three stewards, Henry Galway, Thoma-Tighe, and William Bernard, and Albert Muller, a truckman, were arrested in the city, charged with attempting to smuggle several thousand dollars worth of rich laces, which were found secreted in the midst of the ship's soiled linen, which Muller was taking to a laundry. Chief Officer J. H. Jago disappeared from the vessel about the same time, just before the United States marshals appeared with a watrant for his arrest. warrant for his arrest.

Chief of Police Murphy, of Jersey City, who still has Kynaston in custody, announced late yesterday affernoon that he had discovered the owner of the coupons. When Kynaston was arrested a large number of letters and memoranda were found upon him. Among them was a silp of paper on which was dimly written lead recoil at the coupon had been as a silp of paper on which was dimly written in lead recoil at the coupon had been as a silp of paper on which was dimly written in lead recoil at the coupon had been as a silp of paper on which was dimly written as a silp of paper on which was dimly writen as a silp of paper on which was dimly written as a s

Mr. Sparks said that Mr. Page was the Jago, who has sailed on the Britannic for the last year, appears to have been the ringleader, and they insisted that he did not take them into his confidence even to the extent of telling them who when it arrived here. The goods, they said, had been concealed in the fruit steward's room on the snip. They stum-bled across an open mail bag there one day during the voyage. Galway said the officers involved offered the stewards $300 each not to betray the plot, but he admitted that other mailbags had been brought to his room, rifled and returned to the mail-room, which was under Kynaston's charge.

None of the officials concerned in the case would talk freely about the matter.

Postmaster Van Cott refused a direct Answer when questioned and referred to Superintendent Wheeler, of the Postoffice Inspector's Department, who also declined to give any information. Superintendent of Mails Maze, however, said that every mail bag from the Eritannic had been accounted for, and he knew of nother assistance. His father who resides every mail bag from the Estannic had been accounted for, and he knew of noth-ing having been taken from them. Mr. Houghton would only say that all the men who are believed to have been con-cerned in the affair are now under ar-lest excepting Jago. The city is being secured for him as Garagnan.

Kynaston was arraigned in the first criminal court. Jersey City, yesterday morning. The case was posttoned to Wednesday morning, but Kynaston will not be surrendered to the United States officers until the Jersey City authorities are through with him.

Norman L. Rowe, whom Kynaston has retained as counsel, said that his client had made no confession al'eging whole sale robbery aboard the Britannic, as has been stated. Kynaston, he declared, was free from criminal guilt, and could not be held by the authorities in this country. The coupons, he said, were not stolen of the steamship, but were obtained in Eng-

A more pitiful sight than a mother and her child, both captives and shackled in a dungeou, could not well be imagined. There are thousands of mothers and their babes who he shackled by disease in the dungeon of death.

Without knowing it, or having the faintest comprehension of it, the fault lies with the mother. Too many women enter spon the responsibilities of wichood and motherhood while suffering from weakness and disease of the delicate and important organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible. A woman who suffers in this way cannot be a capable wife and a competent mother. Before entering upon the duties and responsibilities of these positions, she should see to it that her health, both general and local, is thoroughly restored. Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription is the best of all medicines for this purpose. It acts directly on the sensitive organs concerned, making them strong, healthy and vigorous.
